मुस्कराइए, आप लखनऊ में हैं!

Lucknow, the capital of Uttar Pradesh, was once controlled by the Delhi Sultanate, then the Mughal Empire and with turn of events, the power was transferred to the Nawabs of Awadh and then came the British Rule. As a result, this historic city boasts a cultural tapestry, woven from the threads of Mughal, Awadhi and Colonial influences. This rich historical past and royal splendour has made Lucknow, a melting pot of art, culture, cuisine and architecture. Today, this bustling city with a population of almost four million, preserves its essence of grandeur and offers a great kaleidoscopic experience.

Lucknow got bestowed with numerous eye-catching monuments, both during the Nawab's regime and the British rule. The imposing Bara Imambara, the Chotta Imambara, Rumi Darwaza, Kaiserbagh Palace - are the examples of the Mughal/Awadhi design, that was prevalent then in the city. The La Martiniere College exemplifies the Baroque influence and the Colonial style brought in monuments like - Char Bagh Railway Station, King George Medical University, Residency complex and others. Interestingly, the Husainabad Clock, tallest clock tower in India (221ft.), is said to be a replica of the Big Ben in London! The blend of the earlier architecture of the Nawabs and the Britishers interweaves smoothly with contemporary architecture of the day with the urban vocabulary, interpreting the traditional elements in a modern idiom!

From a vibrant culinary scene and exquisite historical monuments, coupled with the 'Ganga-Jamuni Tehzeeb', the rich culture and vestiges of colonial charm, the City of Nawabs and Kebabs, as it is popularly called, no doubt provides pleasant glimpses of an aspiring young modern-day India. That's the reason, someone has rightly observed that "Lucknow is not a city, it is an emotion"...

THEME

Of all the developing countries in the world, India is perhaps the one, which has experienced more dynamic changes in the process of urbanisation. The speed of urbanisation poses unprecedented managerial and policy challenges, including sustainable development, carbon-free growth, energy efficiency, green house effects, etc. Now is the time, therefore, when all the stakeholders need to deliberate on all these issues and options.

With this backdrop, the Indian Institute of Architects (IIA) is pleased to organise its three-day National Convention 2024 at the historic city of Lucknow, with a central theme of संवर्धन (samvardhan). Samvardhan is a Sanskrit word, and some of its meanings are - augmentation, enhancement, development, growth, promotion, magnification, enrichment, and so on. In line with this theme, IIA NatCon 2024 will be a forum for debate and deliberation on ways and means to augment and enhance resources for a balanced and uninterrupted pace of development.

IIA NatCon 2024 aims to analyse and evaluate the challenges and seek solutions for rapid growth in Indian building and infrastructure sectors. IIA NatCon 2024 will be a forum for interaction and deliberation on issues and options related to urban transformation, not only in Uttar Pradesh but in the country as a whole. IIA NatCon 2024 is committed to drawing the Agenda for Action for the entire construction sector- residential, commercial or infrastructure projects.

IIA is expecting the participation of close to 2,500 delegates (1,500 from different parts of the country, 500 from different parts of Uttar Pradesh and 500 student delegates from different architectural colleges) to discuss their ways and means for translating ideas into action!

ATTRACTIONS

Conference

As part of the NatCon, the IIA-UP Chapter has planned to organize a concurrent conference to facilitate knowledge-sharing. This conference will have the presence and participation of some of the nationally and internationally acclaimed architects. Thus, this conference will provide a great opportunity to interact and network with the speakers and delegates arriving from different parts of the country.

Product Exhibition

There will be a large product exhibition to showcase innovative products and technologies, and leading product manufacturers from within and outside the country are invited to participate and display their latest offerings. This exhibition will provide an insight into the ever-evolving world of architectural products to the practising architects from different parts of the country.

Quality Improvement Programmes

IIA is also organizing three Quality Improvement Programmes as concurrent events, and teachers from different parts of the country will participate in these programs to improve their skill sets for training the architects of tomorrow.

Student Workshops

The senior students from different architectural colleges, besides participating in conferences and exhibitions, will be enrolled to attend various workshops being organized as a part of the event. These workshops will provide them with exciting exposure to different architecture-related aspects.

Skill Development Programmes

IIA is also organizing skill development programmes related to specific trades like plumbing, lighting, carpentry, masonry, etc, in line with the Skill India initiative launched by the Hon'ble Prime Minister.

Live Craft Demonstration

Live demonstrations on some crafts, like Chikankari, silk weaving, etc., are also organized by skilled artisans.

Heritage Walk

IIA UPC has also planned an interesting Heritage Walk to give the participants an insight into the architectural legacy of some of the heritage properties of Lucknow.

Gala Night

It will be a night to celebrate, rejoice, and network with fellow professionals who have arrived from different parts of the country and Uttar Pradesh.

PARTICIPATION

There are multiple options for participation at IIA NatCon and every option provides adequate and rewarding opportunity for brand-recall, product promotion, knowledge-sharing, networking, forging alliances and so on.

Sponsorship Opportunities

IIA NatCon provides great branding opportunity as well as product visibility amongst the architects, through certain high profile sponsorship opportunities. Sponsorship options, tariffs and privileges are published in the following pages in this brochure. These sponsorship slots offer large number of benefits including allotment of complimentary stall at vantage location, logo presence in newspaper ads, FM radio promotion, presence on social media posts, commercial presentation opportunity, onsite branding etc, subject to the applicability of respective sponsorship slot.

Exhibition Participation

A large product exhibition will be organized on all three days of the event in an air-conditioned hangar structure. Various sized stalls will be available for participants. Some of stalls are reserved for sponsors and it will be made available on a first-come-first-served basis. Exhibition Participation Charges are Rs 12,000 per sq mtr exclusive of GST, as applicable. The charges are inclusive of air-conditioning, carpeting, round-the-clock security, housekeeping and general lighting.

Delegate Registration

IIA NatCon will facilitates knowledge-sharing and meaningful interaction with eminent speakers as well as fellow professionals, from across the country. Hence, participation as delegate will bring 'value for money' and also facilitate meaningful interaction and networking opportunities.
